WESTERY TOWN COUNCIL APPEALS

Dissatisfied with Judgment for $600 in Favor of C. P. Chapman—Burglary on Pierce St.—Milk Wagon Struck by Car—Frederick Lueck Seriously Ill in Lowell.

Rhode Island has made a record advance in valuation during the year, having made an increase over a year ago of $2,729,23, which brings the total assessable property up to $516,636,341. The gain in valuation is divided almost equally between real estate and personal property. Last year the valuation of real estate was $392,337,951. This year it is $398,451,886, a gain of $6,113,935. Personal property valuation in 1908 was $114,298,390. This year it is $121,208,475, a gain of $6,909,085. The returns have not been received from the towns of Cranston and Warwick. In laying the tax in those two towns the general treasurer will use last year's figures, with the understanding that the figures will be changed to suit the valuation figured out by these towns. The city of Providence shows a big gain and most of the towns and cities. Some of the towns show a considerable decrease. Hopkinton drops off $88,059. This may be explained by the loss to the town of the Nichols & Langworthy Machine company. West Greenwich continues its downward course with a loss of $68,250. Every town reports substantial gains in taxes through the law which exempts soldiers and sailors of the Civil war and their widows exemption from taxation to the valuation of $10,000. This law is new to Rhode Island, although it has been in force in other states for many years.

Russell Stewart, a lower Pawcatuck milkman, was in his closed milk wagon Saturday morning driving over the Prospect street crossing when the wagon was struck by a car that was being run down the spur track to the C. & P. Railroad plant. The wagon was damaged beyond repair. Mr. Stewart was thrown out of the front of the wagon and landed on his horse. The injury to the horse was slight cuts in the hind legs. The traces were broken and the horse released from the demolished wagon.

Mr. Stewart, being in the enclosed wagon, could not hear the approach of the car and had driven on the crossing before he was seen by the train hands. The locomotive was stopped as quickly as possible and the train hands cleared the wreck and assisted Mr. Stewart. Mr. Stewart asserted that he had a claim for damages against the railroad company, as there was no flagman at the crossing and that therefore he thought he had a safe right of way. On the other hand, the trainmen say that if Mr. Stewart

The Young Men's Italian club of Westery was incorporated by the secretary of state Friday. The incorporators are George Montalto, Joseph Monte, Joseph Trovato, John Dimaggio and Carmelo Trovato. The object of the club is given as the promotion of literary pursuits.

The annual meeting for organization of the republican state central committee was held in Providence Friday. After the business session the members were the guests of Gen. Charles R. Brayton, "Boss Drayton," at the Crown hotel. Judge John W. Sweeney, in view of the election of a United States senator at the next legislative session, Senator Aldrich's term closing, the committee decided upon the appointment of two special committees for the congressional districts. Judge Sweeney of Westery and James V. B. Watson of South Kingston were appointed the Washington county members of the Second Congressional committee.

The police authorities of Washington county are probing the mystery of the death of Andrew Rogers, whose body was found in the pine woods near Wood River Junction, relatives of the deceased believing that death was caused by murder rather than suicide. Rogers had been missing since last April and it is believed that the body had been in the woods since that time until its discovery two weeks ago. While it is conceded that the implementation of death was a razor owned by Rogers, it is thought possible that it was wielded by a hand other than that of Rogers, as his watch and valuables were missing and nothing of value was found on his person.

Andrew Rogers was known to many residents of Westery, as he was employed in the Cannell & Henshall mill in Main street as boss carter a dozen or more years ago.

Some time after midnight Friday and before sunrise Saturday the store of Pasquale Furcolo at 32 Pierce street was entered by burglars and cigars, tobacco and other goods to the value of $50 taken. Entrance was made by the removal of a large pane of glass from the store door and exit was made by the same route. Several drawers were rifled and there was an evident search for cash, but none was obtained.

By instruction of the Westery town council, Attorneys Walter H. Barney of Providence and Attorney Everett E. Kingsley have filed notice of appeal with the clerk of the superior court for Washington county in the case of Courtland P. Chapman against the town of Westery, in which judgment of $600 has been given for defendant. This was done in a motion for a new trial, six reasons being given, as follows:

That the verdict was contrary to the evidence; that the verdict was contrary to the weight of evidence; that the verdict was contrary to law; that the verdict is inconsistent with the first special finding made by the jury; that the damages assessed by the jury are excessive; and that the second special finding by the jury is contrary to the evidence in the case.

At the annual meeting of Westery conclave of Heptasophs these officers were elected: Frederick N. Clarke, archon; William S. Eaton, proconvict; George R. McQuinn, convict; Archie C. Thompson, secretary; I. E. Lewis, financier; C. Grant Savage, treasurer; J. L. Friend, inspector; James R. Johns, warder; J. Alfred Johnson, sentinel; Samuel C. Webster, Mrs. W. S. Eaton and J. I. Bentley, trustees.

Kingsley on account in the Chapman cases, with the understanding that his total bill would not exceed $200. The sum of $50 was ordered paid on account to Mr. Kingsley in the Conway case.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Cannonism Must Go.

Mr. Editor: If congress follows the recommendations of President Taft as lined out in his message it looks to a layman as though it would put its seal of approval on all of the essentials and that it is up to them by their votes to make good.

To keep tab on the advance data of the issues, however, would be as impossible as to keep the same on the advance data of births. Protection is a sacred principle. It is one of the ten commandments of the republicans, but schedules under it may vary from time to time as conditions change. The schedules of today may be wrong tomorrow and the question bobs up serenely. How can this be regulated? Certainly not in a manner to arouse a spirit of retaliation, but in adopting a system which prevents all such trouble, showing a progressive spirit, an honest desire to repair existing defects and give the people what they are entitled to—a tariff revision along the lines that the tariff on any article should never be greater than the difference in cost in the United States and the cost in any foreign country where the same article, or as good a one answering the same purpose, is manufactured. At any rate, dear Editor, will it not be wisdom for the friends of protection to—in some way—revise the tariff rather than to let the enemy to the principle—revise the list?

Now, dear Bulletin, will you allow the writer while the whole press of the country are taking a shot at the Smooth Bore Cannon mounted on the house pedestal—to chip in with a word or two in connection with the quotations from the Hartford Courant, Dec. 7th, to wit:

"Angus McQueen writes from Washington that Speaker Cannon's failure to name the leader of the house—Serenio S. Payne, of New York—as a member of the committee to wait upon President Taft was another piece of spite work. 'Cannon has been angry with Payne, he writes, 'ever since they clashed over the tariff bill in the last session, and he took this opportunity to humiliate Payne publicly, both for its possible effect upon Payne and as a warning to other opposition men who may dispute his authority in the session just opened.' From the Woman's National Daily, Dec. 7th.

"The nation-wide fight for the right of the whole people is just starting. The time is coming when the roar of the big guns will be fired, including one Cannon, and the biggest Cannon of all is already so hot that a premature explosion may cause any one to dissipate him in a cloud of smoke."

And from The Bulletin, editorially: "Speaker Cannon will resign to save his party, or to save his face, doesn't know his man."

And McQuinn who in writing of the opening of congress says:

"As the hand pointed to the hour Speaker Cannon tripped up the aisle, ascended the throne, etc." all of which brings to the surface a world of recollections and unwinds memories of that political tragedy that stirred up public sentiment against the reign of Cannonism, the sequel to which was the loss to the country and state of Connecticut of that able advocate of the people's rights—the late Gov. George L. Lilley.

The writer cast his first ballot—and has been nutting ever since—since 1854, and although old age has seamed his cheek he now believes that unless a majority of the representative body have sunk into total depravity that they will at the proper time spike the vent, draw the charge and deposit that piece of artillery, body, boot and breeches, in the political junk pile.

Would rather be a democrat, And with Friend Walter stand, Than be a Jo-coe autocrat With a gavel in my hand.
